

RCMP VETERANS' ASSOCIATION
EDMONTON DIVISION
SPECIAL INFORMATION PACKAGE

Upon Your Death

Compiled for the information of all retirees and their families on behalf of your Edmonton Division Executive

Your Edmonton Veterans' Association Executive has prepared the following to help the spouse, executor, or executrix in the event of a pensioned member's death, but the information can be helpful to anyone experiencing a death within their family. There are several website links contained in this package, and should you experience difficulty with any of these links or the contact people provided, please contact the Edmonton Division's President as noted on page #9.

WHAT TO DO WITH RCMP UNIFORMS/KIT WHEN A FORMER MEMBER DIES

In light of the tragic events that occurred in Nova Scotia in 2020, in most cases former members are in possession of RCMP uniforms/kit. These items remain the property of the Crown and as such are not to be sold, given to charity, or thrown into a dumpster, etc. The RCMP requests these uniforms be destroyed, and "destroyed" truly means destroyed, cut up or burned or returned to "K" Division HQ's RCMP for disposal: 11140 - 109 Street, Edmonton AB T5G 2T4, Attention: "K" Division Warrant Officer. Should you have questions or require assistance with this process, please email the "K" Division Warrant Officer's office at RCMP.KWarrantOfficers-KSous-officiersbrevetes.GRC@rcmp-grc.gc.ca or Phone: 780-412-5502.

Keep this information with your Will

In life, there are only two certainties, death and taxes and you must be prepared for both eventualities. The first prerequisite is to have a legal, properly registered 'Last Will & Testament' to assist the executor/executrix to manage the transfer of assets to the beneficiaries of your estate. In conjunction with the preparation of a Will, you should compile an accurate record of the assets of your estate. This record should be stored in an accessible location so the executor/executrix can settle the estate efficiently and effectively. Obtaining the assistance of your banker, financial consultant and/or lawyer is often advisable. Most bankers will say in the event of a death they should be among the first notified. Every bank has different policies with respect to access to accounts and, therefore, it is advisable to discuss this eventuality with them, so you are familiar with their process. NOTE: Couples should be aware when one of them is the Primary Credit Card Holder, the spouse as the co-applicant of that credit card will NOT be allowed to use the Credit Card when the primary holder dies. This is particularly important if the couple do a lot of travelling. Check with your Credit Card Company as to their policy.

When a retired member on pension dies, the survivor, executor/executrix of the estate MUST immediately contact and inform The Government of Canada (RCMP) Pension Centre at:

Public Services and Procurement Canada

- A copy of the Provincial death certificate or a Funeral Director's Statement of Death will be required in due course. NOTE: If the pensioner's spouse has predeceased, a copy of his/her death certificate or Funeral Director's Statement of Death will also be required.

Although this is a stressful time it is important the Pension Centre be advised as soon as possible and once notified, the survivor - executor/executrix - will receive a letter in approximately two weeks from the Pension Centre advising the basic and/or optional life insurance (Great West Life Insurance) of the deceased member. It may take five to eight weeks for the Death Package material advising options available with respect to pension benefits to arrive. Should these materials not be received in a timely fashion it is highly recommended the Pension Centre be contacted by telephone or email to ensure they have forwarded your letter and information package.

The spouse/executor will be required to complete separate forms to establish eligible survivor benefits and insurance payouts when applicable. Other things to be considered are:

- Taxes payable on the deceased member's pension
- Advising Alberta Health Care (usually taken care of by Funeral Home)
- Continuation of Public Service Health Care Plan (PSHCP) - Extended Health, administered by Canada Life <https://my.canadalife.com> – Phone: 1-855-415-4414

The following are excerpts from the RCMP National Compensation Manual.

13. 2. Serving Member including Retired to Pension

13. 2. 1. Plot or Niche

13. 2. 1. 1. Deceased members who died while serving, or members retired to pension eligible for an immediate annuity or annual allowance at the time of discharge, and the remains of RMs transferred from a lonely grave, are eligible for a plot or a columbarium niche, at no cost, in an RCMP-designated cemetery.

13. 2. 1. 1. 1. This benefit will remain in force, even if the member retired to pension is subsequently re-employed and surrenders their annuity, in recognition of their RCMP service.

13. 2. 1. 2. Eligible survivors, as outlined in sec. 13.1.9., are also eligible for burial in RCMP-designated cemeteries, as space allows. Any additional costs, including a larger plot or niche, or the opening or closing of the grave site, to accommodate a survivor, will be at the estates expense.

13. 2. 1. 3. The remains of a survivor, as outlined in sec. 13.1.9., may be placed in the same plot or niche, as the deceased member, at the expense of the estate, provided the remains can be accommodated, and the request complies with local cemetery restrictions.

13. 2. 1. 4. Pre-selection in a RCMP-designated cemetery of a burial plot or niche will not be accepted before the death of an eligible person. After the death of an eligible person, at the request of the next of kin, the CO/delegate will make arrangements for the burial in a RCMP-designated cemetery.

13. 2. 1. 4. 1. The cost associated to the single portion of a double plot selected before the member's death will be reimbursed only at the death of the member. Ensure the original invoice and receipt are retained and that the single plot cost is shown on that original invoice for future payment from public funds.

13. 2. 2. Burial Markers

13. 2. 2. 1. The specifications for the RCMP regimental headstone and markers are outlined in App. 2-2-10.

13. 2. 2. 2. The CO/delegate has authority to reimburse the provider, the next of kin, or the Executor/Executrix of either a deceased serving member or retired pensioner who retired with an immediate annuity or annual allowance under the RCMP Superannuation Act or RCMP Pension Continuation Act, an amount from public funds in keeping with current market prices for those items listed below. Arrangements should be made on behalf of the survivors or Estate by the CO/delegate with a local manufacturer, for the manufacture, transportation, and placement of a:

13. 2. 2. 2. 1. regimental headstone or marker, and base, if required, if burial takes place in Canada; or

13. 2. 2. 2. 2. for the payment of a non-regimental headstone, marker, or niche marker of choice in Canada to a maximum of $220, provided there is a reference on the headstone, marker, or niche to the member's service in the RCMP.

13. 2. 2. 3. Ensure the next of kin is aware that the choice of headstone or marker must comply with local cemetery restrictions. This is of particular importance as these markers are no longer centrally produced.

Regimental headstones or markers provided by the RCMP bear a uniform size and inscription, and no change from the format is allowed. See App. 2-2-10.

13. 2. 2. 4. The CO/delegate can authorize the placement of a RCMP regimental headstone or marker in a RCMP cemetery, or on any lonely grave, when it is not feasible to transfer the remains to a RCMP cemetery.
